The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, as amended (FERPA) affords students certain rights with regard to their respective education records. In essence, these rights are (1) the right to inspect and review education records, (2) the opportunity to challenge the contents of education records, and (3) the right to exercise some control over the disclosure of information from education records. This form allows release of Student Conduct records, which are considered education records, within forty-five days of receipt or for the duration designated below.
